

Poetry

Lots of people write poems to show how they are feeling, just like Khansaa did (May Allah be pleased with her!). There are many different types of poems. Some even have rhyming words!

You can try to write a poem about Ramadaan! How does Ramadaan make you feel? What do you do in Ramadaan?

Think about your different senses.

What do you see in Ramadaan? What can you hear in Ramadaan? What can you smell in Ramadaan? What can you taste in Ramadaan? What can you feel in Ramadaan?

Here is an example of a poem:

I can see the moon like a jewel in the sky
I can hear the Adhaan welcoming the fasting day
I can smell the sweetness of dates, melons and strawberries

Or you could write an acrostic poem. This is a poem that has each line starting with a letter that reads a word going down.

Ready to welcome a month of blessings

Are you excited for iftaar?

My family give money to the poor

A

D

A

A

N

My Ramadaan Poem

Guidance

As parents, caregivers and educators, we can talk about our experiences of Ramadaan. Talk to your children about their memories of Ramadaan last year. Remember that younger children may need some hints to help them remember.

Children love to express themselves; for many children, this can be through drawing and colouring. The previous page has been left blank for children to draw something to help them write a poem and bring their poem to life.

Lastly, if your child has completed the poem then please do email a picture or tag us on social media. We would love to read the poems and share them with your consent.

